

Misson, Brazil, 1978: Girls scrubbing rocks

Janet (rt) with some of the founders of AMARN, their daughter members, their grandchildren

Poster saying, “Deolinda, one of a group of women trafficked to Manaus without any understanding of what awaited them. They hoped to discover something better, but they were subjected to domestic, sexual, and psychological violence, besides confronting racism, discrimination and prejudice.”

Group photo, showing the second generation of members

Meeting space behind the AMARN Center. Second generation women

AMARN woman in sales kiosk

Expo center, Manaus, with AMARN women's crafts on display

AMARN Center meeting

AMARN woman showing her AMARN pendant

AMARN workspace, 1995

AMARN workspace, 2015

Janet with Anita Tukana, an AMARN founder

Some Ruth Benedict Collective members: Suzanne Hanchett, Sheila Dauer, Janet Chernela, Doranne Jacobson